Human improvement is from within outward. Froude.

The word health is defined as, "physical and mental well being," but even more than that it comes from the Anglo-Saxon word hal, halth meaning whole. If health is wholeness then healing is the coming together of the parts, so that wholeness will be the resulting condition. The best cure is the one that removes the obstacles to health and wholeness.

The cure is worse than the disease. Massinger.

Modern and ancient medicine has provided potent remedies for the maladies of man. Those potions often carry with them side effects that can be as, if not more, lethal than the original ailment.

God heals and the doctor takes the fee. Franklin

Not only is the offered cure sometimes difficult and costly for the body to swallow but the price is often more than the patient can bear. If the Lord who created us is truly benevolent, then it is only reasonable to believe that he would provide us with a remedy that would allow us to both be whole and to prosper.

The art of medicine is usually a matter of time. Ovid

Often the most important curative agents are nothing more than the body's God given natural powers of healing plus time. The medicine itself may have no more healing power than a placebo. Although, the pharmaceutical concoctions may soothe and relieve symptoms for those patients who are filled more with fear than faith, their ever present side effects continue to be real.

Go up into Gilead, and take balm, O virgin, the daughter of Egypt: in vain shalt thou use many medicines; thou shalt not be cured. (Jer 46:11)

The idea that one can be cured of an ailment or disease without regard to the condition of the mind should seem contrary to the nature of the whole person. It should also be clear that not only can an illness of the body effect the condition of the mind but the disposition of the mind can clearly affect the health of the body. When the wholeness of the person is divided he is not in good health.

The contagion of the mind affects the body. Ovid.

God does not want us to suffer but he wants us to be whole. He wants us to be one in mind, body and soul. God is the source of life.

Behold, I will bring it health and cure, and I will cure them, and will reveal unto them the abundance of peace and truth. (Jer 33:6)

Faith in God brings with it true peace, well-being and wholeness.

Slam the door on the doctors nose. Longfellow

There are few doctors that will not recognize that the emotional and mental state of the afflicted play a critical part in their recovery.

A merry heart doeth good [like] a medicine: but a broken spirit drieth the bones. (Pr 17:22)

The individual's emotional and mental state is dependent upon the spirit that possesses them.

For whoso findeth me findeth life, and shall obtain favour of the LORD. But he that sinneth against me wrongeth his own soul: all they that hate me love death. (Pr 8:35, 36)

An important part of becoming whole is to first realize that there is a problem and second, to believe that we may be made whole again.

It is part of the cure to want to be cured. Seneca

To ask for something is the essence of prayer. Who is more worthy and capable of healing than the giver of all life? Who is most worthy of our prayers?

And Asa in the thirty and ninth year of his reign was diseased in his feet, until his disease [was] exceeding [great]: yet in his disease he sought not to the LORD, but to the physicians. (2Chronicles 16:12)

Without humility who will call upon the LORD? We must seek his face turning from our wicked ways. We must ask for forgiveness and we shall be forgiven, as we forgive those who trespass against us.

Do we really know the voice of Jesus, Yeshua, Christ the King, the LORD God on earth? Do we live in His faith, obedience and way?

If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land. (2Ch 7:14)

The chief obstacle to healing is lack of faith. The fuel for this obstruction is fear. Fear encourages us to reach out away from life.

But when Jesus heard [it], he answered him, saying, Fear not: believe only, and she shall be made whole. (Lu 8:50)

If we truly believe we must by that belief act upon it. Not that our works will save. The prodigal son must begin his return with some act of faith. We must knock on the door, reach out in faith, cry unto our Father in spirit and in truth, so that he may be merciful.

I said, LORD, be merciful unto me: heal my soul; for I have sinned against thee. (Ps 41:4)

Order is the sanity of the mind, the health of the body, the peace of the city, the security of the state. As the beams to a house, as the bones to the microcosm of man, so is order to all things.<sup>1</sup>

The Essenes were labeled as Healers and Doctors. They sought the natural herbs and the use of oils as well as the content of minerals used in healing. They were devoted to service of poor and rich, Jew and gentile alike even refusing to own slaves. They were hailed for their honesty, temperance, reason and justice, as well as their talent as healers.

But, more than their care and charity to the individuals they were the healers of a nation. Judah was but a remnant of Israel and steeped in apostasy. It was a divided flock when Jesus walked the shores of Galilee preaching the kingdom of Heaven was at hand.

1 Robert Southey 1774-1843

Jesus preached a kingdom where men could come together under the perfect law of liberty. Where men contributed to the whole willingly in Faith and Hope and Charity. It was not a kingdom of force nor exercising authority but one of love and brotherhood.

Nothing has divided men against men more than covetousness. Pride, arrogance and ambition sever men from God and in that state of naked abandonment we become frightened.

Christ was a paradigm of giving, service and sacrifice. In our arrogance we compound problems and cut ourselves off from God's healing. In humility and repentance we are turned again to the giving ways of the Father. If we are to be forgiven there is no better way than to forgive. Return hate with love, greed with giving, injury with comfort.

We must take on the forgiving and merciful character and name of God as individuals, families, congregations and eventually as one nation under God the Father. We then began to tap into the everlasting life of the Father. We become whole by contributing unselfishly to the whole.

The Spirit of the Lord [is] upon me, because he hath anointed me to preach the gospel to the poor; he hath sent me to heal the brokenhearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty them that are bruised, Luke 4:18

There is no place for oppression, covetousness, hate or fear in the Kingdom of God. . Repent! for the kingdom of heaven is at hand.

These things have I spoken unto you, that my joy might remain in you, and [that] your joy might be full. (Joh 15:11)

The wHoly Temple of Life

The Human body is a complex multi integrated chemical, biological and electrical system. It is constructed of living bone, tissues and membranes. Each composed of millions of cells working, endeavoring, struggling to sustain life and the system as a whole. Every cell is part of the whole, born of an original cell, carrying the original DNA identity, yet unique in function, capacity and purpose.

There are many separate systems in the body born from original cells fused in procreation. These organs, bones, glands, nerves, filters, blood, etc. all function separately yet together. There is the digestive system, lymph system, nervous system, respiratory system, circulatory system, muscular system and more. All hanging on a remarkably engineered skeleton of living bone. Each system is both independent and dependent. Each is a part of the whole yet unique in its purpose.

There is no laboratory or factory or industry on earth that can match the complex workings of just one of the cells of your body. The entire modus operandi is composed of millions of humble servants living out their existence serving the whole by serving each other in a dedicated dance of life so that you might live. This whole system is the living temple for our own souls. It is our holy place in this world.

In order to maintain this living network we have been given authority and dominion over the overall maintenance of the systems. We feed it, cool it, warm it, rest and exercise it. We save it from perils of flood and famine, we consciously flee fire, ferocious beasts and fetid poisons. But in our own vanity we may be blinded to the abuse and adulteration of the very system that maintains our existence on this planet.

Like a self indulgent tyrant and king who forgets the needs of his subjects, we may place the whole kingdom in stress and peril just to satisfy our own lust for pleasure and comfort. Our arrogance may lead us to forget the principles upon which life depends. We must, as good high priest of this holy temple, created by our own Father, be diligent servants at the temple that it may serve us well all the days of our life.

We must learn to feed the body and not just the tongue. The body needs food as it was designed to consume it. Remember, the God who made our bodies, made also the food our bodies were naturally meant to consume. An over processed diet that is extirpated and emaciated or deprecated should be considered devastated and desecrated.

*Take good heed therefore unto yourselves,
that ye love the LORD your God.* Joshua 23:11

Good News or Bad News, The cure that kills

When polio was supposedly cured by the ingestion of a pink sugar cube the world rejoiced at the cleverness of men. Yet, man seldom acts with full knowledge and understanding of what he is doing.

The fluid that nurses dropped on the cubes for millions of Americans contained a live monkey virus. This virus called SV40 contaminated millions of doses of oral polio vaccine in the 1940s and 1950s. It has been linked to human cancer. Researchers at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston, Texas, in the August 24th issue of New Scientist, found a mechanism that directly implicates SV40 as a human carcinogen. The same research found the active virus in a human brain tumor.

Between 10 and 30 million people in the United States were inoculated with the contaminated polio vaccine. Researchers working with laboratory mice and hamsters in the United States and Europe have known that injections of SV40 could induce brain tumors and mesothelioma (a lung cancer found mainly in people exposed to asbestos).

The virus causes cancer by switching off a protein called p53 that prevents cells from dividing uncontrollably and becoming malignant. SV40 contains a protein, known as T antigen, that binds to p53 and deactivates it. Researchers also discovered that other cells made only when p53 is active were missing from the cells. This discovery suggests that the tumor suppressant had been shut down. The research findings may also explain why approximately 20 percent of people who develop mesothelioma have never been exposed to asbestos.

Many say, "Look at the benefits of vaccines and modern drugs." Yet this slogan and wishful thinking is bandied about as if the fact is real. No vaccine was responsible for the dramatic decline of Spanish flu, Scarlet Fever or many other plagues that come and go.

Mass inoculations can be a doorway to disaster. The Phyllis Schlafly report of February 1999 stated, "Vaccines contain either inactivated (killed) bacteria or viruses or they contain live viruses that have been attenuated (weakened). Sometimes, live-virus vaccines can cause the disease they are designed to prevent. The live-virus polio, measles and chickenpox vaccines can cause vaccine-strain infections of these diseases. Drug corporations grow the viruses and bacteria used to make vaccines in either chicken or pig embryonic cell cultures, monkey kidney cells, human embryonic lung cells, yeast cells, or other mediums. Chemicals such as formaldehyde are used to inactivate the viruses or bacteria. Vaccines also contain such additives as aluminum, thimerosal (mercury), gelatin and antibiotics."

"It is not clear that the increased use of vaccines always promotes the health of individuals. No vaccine is 100% safe or effective. We hear persistent reports that some children, following vaccination, develop chronic health problems such as seizure disorders, asthma, persistent ear infections, learning disabilities, hyperactivity, autism, diabetes, arthritis, or other auto immune or neurological disorders. Virginia's Lieutenant Governor John Hager is in a wheelchair because he acquired polio from the vaccine given to his infant son."

"Between 12,000 and 14,000 reports of hospitalizations, injuries and even deaths following vaccination are reported to the Vaccine Adverse Event Reporting System every year. The National Vaccine Injury Compensation Program has already paid out $925 million in claims for vaccine-caused injuries and deaths. Nobody knows the real total of adverse reactions following vaccinations because very few doctors report vaccine-associated health problems."

According to government statistics in 1996 the fourth leading cause of death in America is "prescribed medicines", and there are millions of cases that go undetected. Such as deaths from cancers caused by monkey viruses in polio or other vaccines or other problems stemming from long term effects to say nothing of cover-ups and misdiagnoses.

The Economist, in an article entitled "Plagued by Cures" (11-22-97,p.95), stated: "There is growing evidence that preventing diseases in infancy may be a mixed blessing. Can intervening in an illness sometimes be worse than doing nothing at all? The first possible effect is the replacement of one disease by another. As the incidence of childhood infections has fallen, a number of chronic ailments, such as diabetes and asthma, have become more frequent. In parts of the world where childhood diseases are still common, these chronic ailments are rare... Childhood infections do indeed seem to reduce the probability of chronic disease -- an idea known as the 'hygiene hypothesis.'... The second possible effect of intervening in a disease is that the intervention makes the disease worse in the long term, not better. A number of viral infections are more dangerous to an adult than an infant."

Science News, in an article entitled "The Dark Side of Immunizations" (Nov. 22, 1997), reviewed several studies by New Zealand and by British researchers showing that vaccinated children have a higher incidence of asthma and diabetes than do unvaccinated children. The article notes that animal studies indicate that an absence of contact with naturally occurring viruses increases the risk of diabetes, and that research in humans suggests that some childhood infections may be advantageous in priming the child's immune system to fight off asthma. A 1994 study suggested that the pertussis vaccination of infants may increase the risk of asthma five-fold during childhood.<sup>2</sup>

According to a Centers for Disease Control report, there were only 10,637 cases of hepatitis B in the United States in 1996, including only 279 cases in children under the age of 14. Hepatitis B is not fatal for most, and it is not epidemic except among high-risk groups.

For the problem of 279 children who have hepatitis B, millions of children are being forced to take three hepatitis B shots (at about $120) instead of just trying to vaccinate high risk groups. "Infants are considered the easiest to immunize," says Dr. Walter Orenstein, Director of CDC's Immunization Program. (N.Y.

2 (Odent MR, Culpin EE, Kimel T., "Pertussis vaccination and asthma: is there a link?" JAMA, 1994; 272:591-592.)

Times, 6/30/97)

More than 24,000 reports of hospitalizations, including about 400 deaths, following hepatitis B vaccinations have been reported since 1990 to the U.S. government's Vaccine Adverse Event Reporting System.

Most states require children to be injected with about 33 doses of 9 or 10 different viral and bacterial vaccines, including three doses of hepatitis B vaccine, in order to enter public school.

Antibiotics are reported as possible source of weakening the immune systems. Children who have ready access to antibiotics are more likely to suffer chronic ear and throat infections according to the AMA.

Removal of tonsils, appendix and gallbladder are common. Studies have shown that the tonsils play an important part in our immune system and its development. The appendix is part of the lymphatic system and acts as a bacteria block in one part of the intestines. The Gallbladder is linked to the liver and the digestive system and although its importance is not fully understood its removal may not be without future problems.

I had serious gallbladder attacks and was facing its removal through surgery as the only medical solution. I heard of a four day cleansing program involving apple juice, distilled water and olive oil. With little discomfort and no expense a quarter of a cup of gallstones were removed. The only side affect was passing several kidney stones with no pain or discomfort. When a Doctor was consulted about the cleanse he refused comment and continued to recommend the surgery.

We need to study about the things that can affect our health. From fluoride to Aspartame, from vaccines to antibiotics we need to understand what we are doing to ourselves. There are many inexpensive, alternative and safer solutions to health.

The Signals of Pain, The Meditation Medication

And the earth was without form, and void; and darkness [was] upon the face of the deep. And the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters. Genesis 1:2

All things are the result of vibration. The motions of particles that form atoms are the result of the motion of even smaller particles.

The nervous system is the result of electromagnetic pulses traveling throughout the body. These signals operate the systems in the body which includes the brain, sending and receiving messages. Many of these messages go both unnoticed and uncomprehended by the conscious mind.

Look upon mine affliction and my pain; and forgive all my sins.
Ps. 25:18

We often think of pain as a terrible thing but without it we could easily bleed to death or die of infection. Pain is telling us something is wrong and needs our attention. But pain is all that and more. Pain properly attended to can actually aid in the healing process. Its signals received with patience and humility and faith can improve circulation and energy to the affected area.

It is clear that tension caused by anger, fear and resentment can restrict blood flow and breathing. Proper breathing promotes health. A relaxed forgiving attitude of patience and love contribute to healthy breathing and circulation. The body can produce beneficial frequencies and brain waves that can help direct healing energy to needed areas.

Meditation is commonly used in the management of chronic pain. Proper Meditation and Humble Unselfish Prayer can facilitate a healthier emotional environment for the unrestricted functioning of systems of the body. These principles are as true for the individual as they are for the body of society.

The acceptance of pain as a guide for the gentle focusing of the mind during meditation can bring about temporary relief from pain. If the pain recedes, continue to seek it. Some people report that the pain seems to move as your attention is directed to it. There are reports of healing and even complete recovery using this and similar method of meditation.

“The act of meditating; close or continued thought; the turning or revolving of a subject in the mind.”<sup>3</sup> Repent in the Bible is from metanoeo to change one's mind, i.e. to repent. Successful meditation usually involves a change of attitude of the mind and heart.

Let the words of my mouth, and the meditation of my heart, be acceptable in thy sight, O LORD, my strength, and my redeemer.
Psalms 19:14

RIFE GALVANIC STIMULATOR TECHNOLOGY

Dr. Royal R. Rife was a decorated scientist that invented a new type of microscope that used light frequencies at low energy levels. It was able to observe functioning viruses. This led to experiments upon parasites, fungus, bacteria and viruses, using square wave frequencies to kill or devitalize these agents of disease.

He conducted tests in 1934 at the Scripps Ranch in California under a special research committee from the University of Southern California. Sixteen patients with cancer were treated with a plasma tube device Dr. Rife had developed. Within a few months, 14 were pronounced cured. The two remaining were pronounced cured within the next 60 days.

Due to unfounded patent infringement claims against Rife's designs a court order was issued to prevent him from announcing his discovery to the world. Dr. Johnson, a trusted friend and leader in the Southern California AMA arranged a press conference to reveal to the public these monumental discoveries of Dr. Rife. The next morning he was dead. The press conference never took place. Later, Federal agents discovered that he had been poisoned.

Rife's laboratory mysteriously burned, records went missing and his microscopes began to disappear. Rife had known men high up in government during W.W.I. Whether this was an asset or a liability is not clear but Herbert Hoover for one knew Rife and his work. Rife continued to be plagued with bogus lawsuits despite please for assistance from his friend. He eventually fled the country.

3 Websters Dictionary

My own experience with this technology included people within the network of the Church who had worked with Rife's assistant. We built our own Rife Blaster with 4 MHz IBM clone and a Radio Shack amplifier.

I had trouble off and on for more than ten years with pain in my wrist when lifting anything in a vertical position. The situation was now chronic and plagued me with excruciating pain at work and even when I tried to pick up my infant son. I was in pain several times a month. They hooked me up and ran through a series of frequencies for a total of about 20 minutes. There was no pain or discomfort in the process except for a tingling feeling.

It was the next day before someone asked me how my wrist was. I noticed there was no pain in any position. Over twenty years later I still have not had another bout with the periodic tendinitis that had constantly plagued me.

I can only guess that some sort of micro parasite was causing inflammation in my wrist where work had damaged the tissue. The parasite was preventing healing. I have seen reports where testing of Rife frequencies on 1/2 of cultures not only killed the unshielded side but retarded the growth of the culture from the shielded untreated side into the now sterile treated side. In any case I was convinced that benefit could be derived from this technology and still have the original computer and radio shack amplifier.

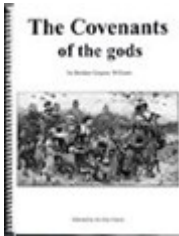

We are all frequency generators. Pain is a way to magnify that frequency and love and forgiveness turns the dial that brings healing and cast out the devouring demons of destruction.

In this day of corporate toxins in filtered into our food supply, into the air we breath and into our lives and homes what shall we do? With GMOs invading our farms, food sources and on our store shelves where will we find solutions to the plagues of our own greed and selfishness.
