The Submission of Peter

"Submit yourselves to every ordinance of man for the Lord's sake: whether it be to the king, as supreme;" 1 Peter 2:13

"Then Peter and the [other] apostles answered and said, We ought to obey God rather than men." Acts 5:29

"As free, and not using your liberty for a cloke of maliciousness, but as the servants of God. Honour all [men]. Love the brotherhood. Fear God. Honour the king. Servants, [be] subject to [your] masters with all fear; not only to the good and gentle, but also to the froward." Peter 2:16-18

"While they promise them liberty, they themselves are the servants of corruption: for of whom a man is overcome, of the same is he brought in bondage." 2 Peter 2:19

"Wherefore if ye be dead with Christ from the rudiments of the world, why, as though living in the world, are ye subject to ordinances," Colossians 2:20

Peter was a man of action and often got himself into trouble for acting too swiftly or impulsively. He often seemed to contradict himself, yet he was a loyal ambassador of Christ who preached the Kingdom of God was at hand and served the Lord by feeding His sheep and serving the Father by serving those who would seek the Kingdom of God and the righteousness of God. Should you Submit yourselves to every ordinance or obey God rather than men. And who are those who promise liberty but are servants of corruption?

A brief look at Romans 13 before we begin for those who have not yet read the Church's essay on these controversial verses:

"Let every soul be subject unto the higher powers. For there is no power but of God: the powers that be are ordained of God." Romans 13:1

This statement by Paul is very true, but a common understanding that God desires men to be subject to the will of other men is false. What Paul is clearly saying with an honest reading of the Greek text is:

"Let every soul be subject unto the higher liberty. For there is no liberty but of God: the liberties that be are ordained of God. Whosoever therefore resisteth (opposes) the liberty, resisteth (opposes) the ordinance of God: and they that resist shall receive to themselves damnation. For rulers are not a terror to good works, but to the evil. Wilt thou then not be afraid of the liberty? Do that which is good, and thou shalt have praise of the same." Romans 13: 1,3

This rendering of the text is unquestionably correct too, despite the fact that it seems to contradict the interpretation often applied Romans. There are many words that can be translated power, but the word used by Paul in Romans is exousia. It means specifically "power of choice, liberty of doing as one pleases." The same Greek word is even translated "liberty" in 1Corinthians 8:9 and "right" in Hebrews 13:10 and Revelations 22:14.

In Plato's notes the "Greek words for freedom (are) eleutheros (liberal/Free), exousia (Freedom/Power to do something), ..."² Aristotle actually exemplifies exousia's use in the statement, "The right (exousia) to do anything one wishes..."³ While, Bryn Mawr's Classical Review says, "...exousia, which expresses 'the new concept of freedom in opposition to the already defunct and unhelpful eleutheria'."⁴

Liberty is a power and a right endowed by God to every man. The translation in King James Version is not incorrect, though interpretations of it may be flawed.

The reference in verse three that "rulers are not a terror to good works, but to the evil" is also true. That does not mean that God desires men to rule over men. If we recall the bondage of Egypt, where men were subject to the rule of Pharaoh and forced by law to pay 20 percent of their income to Pharaoh, 5 was a direct result of the evil deed of abusing and selling their own brother into slavery. 6

When the voice of the people of Israel cried out for a Commander in Chief to fight their battles⁷ for them. God called this a rejection of Him.⁸ God was specific in His description of the multitude of problems that would befall men who made such a wicked and foolish choice.⁹ If we are subject to the same conditions it would not be because God ordained it as much as because we too have rejected God.

Such prophecy always come true when men fail to "seek the Kingdom of God and His righteousness". The power of God's precepts and their neglect are inescapable. The consequence are predicable.

"And ye shall cry out in that day because of your king which ye shall have chosen you; and the LORD will not hear you in that day." 1 Samuel 8:18

When Saul *foolishly*¹⁰ forced the sacrifice of the people his kingdom was doomed. When David foolishly numbered the young men of Israel for the draft, his kingdom would have ended except he repented.¹¹ Solomon and his son oppressed the people.¹² The people repented their sin of rejecting

⁶ Acts 7:9 "And the patriarchs, moved with envy, sold Joseph into Egypt: but God was with him,"

^{7 1} Samuel 8:20 "That we also may be like all the nations; and that our king may judge us, and go out before us, and fight our battles."

^{8 1} Samuel 8:7 "And the LORD said unto Samuel, Hearken unto the voice of the people in all that they say unto thee: for they have not rejected thee, but they have rejected me, that I should not reign over them."

"Go and cry unto the gods which ye have chosen; let them deliver you in the time of your tribulation." Judges 10:14

There are other verses that may lead to confusion if not seen in the context of the spirit of love and dominion of God:

"But chiefly them that walk after the flesh in the lust of uncleanness, and despise government. Presumptuous [are they], selfwilled, they are not afraid to speak evil of dignities." 2 Peter 2:10

Everywhere else the word for government found in 2 Peter 2 is translated dominion.¹³ Dominion upon the earth is a right and responsibility endowed by God upon men. If men give that divine gift and inheritance away in exchange for comforts of the flesh then they have despised dominion?

"Then Jacob gave Esau bread and pottage ... thus Esau despised [his] birthright." Genesis 25:34

From Cain to Nimrod, or from Pharaoh to Caesar governments were instituted by men who would not be ruled by God. God's punishment has not the vengeful purpose that is sometimes applied to God by men. It is God's desire to draw man to the natural state for which he was created. The terror of tyrants come from the sin of the wicked. The sting that results from that sin is a gift also, to awaken man to the wisdom of repentance.

The Bible says in James that you should:

"Submit yourselves therefore to God. Resist the devil, and he will flee from you." James 4:7

The word devil here is diabolos and is often applied to those "opposing the cause of God." God's cause is to free men, not put them in bondage. If we desire to set men free, evil will flee from our hearts.

"Then Peter and the [other] apostles answered and said, We ought to obey God rather than men." Acts 5:29

Should we submit to God or men? Should we ever go under the authority of men or sell ourselves into bondage in exchange for free bread or pottage?

Israel was forced to do so in Egypt because they had sold their own brother into bondage but we were told to never return to that type of scorpions."

bondage again.14

The will of God for man is that he should be free to make choices and not go under the authority of ¹⁵men like Cain, Nimrod, Pharaoh, Saul, or Caesar, yet, we also see Peter say that you should:

"Submit yourselves to every ordinance of man for the Lord's sake: whether it be to the king, as supreme;" 1 Peter 2:13

If we look at this verse word by word and put it into the context of the whole scripture we may see it in a new light.

First, the Greek word *Oun*¹⁶ is not translated in the King James version. The meaning of oun is consequently or therefore. Peters verse 13 is an instruction in relation to prior statements.

"Having your conversation honest among the Gentiles: that, whereas they speak against you as evildoers, they may by [your] good works, which they shall behold, glorify God in the day of visitation." 1 Peter 2:12

We must always read the Bible in the context of the whole Gospel of the Kingdom of God which is at hand. A multitude of Jews accepted Jesus as the king upon his entry into Jerusalem and at Pentecost.

All who accepted Him as the Messiah¹⁷ were cast out¹⁸ of the system of benefits or aid from their government. Both the "world" of Rome and Judea at that time provided for their needy through their civil temples. They had collected compelled offerings to provide welfare for the people.

About 78 BC, the Pharisees, a political party, thought they had a better idea and decided to create a socialist state. Once the people became members of this social scheme the government, appearing as their benefactor, could force their contributions, exercising authority over the people. They enacted a law to enforce the collection of temple tribute.¹⁹

¹⁴ Deuteronomy 17:16 "But he shall not... cause the people to return to Egypt, ... forasmuch as the LORD hath said unto you, Ye shall henceforth return no more that way."

^{15 1} Corinthians 6:12 "All things are lawful unto me, but all things are not expedient: all things are lawful for me, but I will not be brought under the power of any."

¹⁶ oun meaning "then, therefore, accordingly, consequently, these things being so"

¹⁷ Messiah, in Greek it would be the word Christos, was a term applied to Kings of Israel like David. It means Anointed. Christ meant king.

¹⁸ John 9:22 "These [words] spake his parents, because they feared the Jews: for the Jews had agreed already, that if any man did confess that he was Christ, he should be put out of the synagogue."

¹⁹ Salome- Alexandra (about 78 BC), that the Pharisaical party, being then in power, had carried an enactment by which the Temple tribute was to be enforced at law. Alfred Edersheim's book The Temple.

The right hand of government increased its power while reducing the status of the people. The people lost the spiritually maturing benefit of exercising charity and living by hope. Liberty under God decreased.

All governments expand their power or influence over the people by offers of gifts, gratuities, and benefits in schemes that require a decrease in their individual right to choose what they will contribute, to whom and for what purpose. Someone else will have their power of choice.

Herod's grand scheme included a vast membership by application, ritual baptism and the payment of prescribed annual contributions and fees. Membership was recorded by the scribes in a system called Corban who made an accounting of your required payments. Members were given a white stone as ID²⁰ and Herod was able to expand his hope of a kingdom of God on earth. This religious system of social security (Corban) was well marked by the enforcement power of the world, "the state".²¹

Pilate "... used the sacred treasure of the temple, called corban (qorban), to pay for bringing water into Jerusalem by an aqueduct. A crowd came together and clamored against him..." because those funds were for their welfare. But it was that covetous system that brought them into bondage.

"Let their table become a snare before them: and that which should have been for their welfare, let it become a trap." Psalms 69:22

Because this precept of God is so fundamental Paul repeats it.

"And David saith, Let their table be made a snare, and a trap, and a stumblingblock, and a recompence unto them:" Romans 11:9

Why do I say this social security system was religious?

"Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this, To visit²³ the fatherless and widows in their affliction, [and] to keep himself unspotted from the world." James 1:27

The Greek word for world in this verse is defined as "an apt and harmonious arrangement or constitution, order, government" or "State" 25

^{20 &}quot;The missionaries... with their... white stones, would come back with the same wallets full of money, in foreign currency. ²⁵ Kosmos "meant originally the discipline of an army, and next the ordered constitution of a state." John Burnet's Early Greek Philosophy: Section A: Introduction and comes the Greek word komizo defined "to care for, take care of, provide for."

Christ's Kingdom offered the same religious benefits, care, and assistance as the "world", but was dependent on faith, hope, and charity to provide the resources of His government, as God has always intended.

Other nations offer *social contracts*²⁶ that bind their members. These subject citizens have *duties incumbent*²⁷ upon them, including *full faith*²⁸ and allegiance.²⁹ Their leaders were the benefactors who exercised authority one over the other that Christ told us we were *not to be like*³⁰ when He appointed the apostles as the ambassadors of His righteous Kingdom of God at hand.³¹

This is why 1 Peter 2:12 talks about our conduct among the Gentiles. The word Gentiles is from ethnos meaning other nations. The kingdom was a nation under God at hand, but it did not exercise authority over the people. Like Herod's kingdom it had members all over the world but unlike Herod's kingdom Christ's Kingdom was based on the perfect law of liberty and free will choice spoken of by Paul.

"The union and discipline of the Christian republic" was praised by Edward Gibbon. He stated that the Church "gradually formed an independent and increasing state in the heart of the Roman Empire."³²

The word 'conversation' in 1 Peter 2:12 has the meaning of conduct and is translated from the Greek word *anastrophe*³³ which is from *anastropho*³⁴ meaning to "to turn upside down, overturn, to turn back."

We see a variation of that same word referencing Jason and certain brethren accused of turning the world upside down in Thessalonica.

^{26 2} Corinthians 6:16 "And what agreement hath the temple of God with idols? for ye are the temple of the living God; as God hath said, I will dwell in them, and walk in [them]; and I will be their God, and they shall be my people."

"And when they found them not, they drew Jason and certain brethren unto the rulers of the city, crying, These that have turned the world upside down are come hither also," Acts 17:6

The nature of the charge was that they were acting contrary to the decrees of Caesar, saying that there was another king. These acts were upsetting the rulers so much that they had them arrested. It appears they posted a bond in order to get out of jail. Paul and Silas went away in secret to Berea where they preached to many who believed after researching the scriptures.³⁵

Believed what? What was so controversial to the rulers and citizens and what were the Bereans discovering?

Paul did explain that Jesus came and suffered for them, and that he was the Christ. Christ meant Anointed or Messiah which were terms used to identify the king of Israel or Judea since the time of King David's rule. Jesus had been proclaimed king by foreign rulers from the east and by the people of Jerusalem who hailed him as the highest son of David. Pilate as procurator of Rome had officially proclaimed Jesus as the king of the Jerus. Christians like Paul proclaimed Christ as king and preached His government. Agrippa recognized political position. By Christ's sacrifice and death He sealed the truth of His kingship in His innocent blood.³⁶

Jesus' Kingship was very controversial. He was restoring every man to his possession and family.³⁷ The kingdom of God is a network of families coming together under the perfect law of liberty³⁸ binding themselves to one another by faith, hope, and charity³⁹, rather than by social contracts⁴⁰

³⁵ Acts 17:7-11 "...these all do contrary to the decrees of Caesar, saying that there is another king, [one] Jesus. And they troubled the people and the rulers of the city, when they heard these things. And when they had taken security of Jason, and of the other, they let them go. And the brethren immediately sent away Paul and Silas by night unto Berea: who coming [thither] went into the synagogue of the Jews. These were more noble than those in Thessalonica, in that they received the word with all readiness of mind, and searched the scriptures daily, whether those things were so."

which have civil benefactors who exercise authority one over the other.

The early Church did not pray to the *Patronus of Rome*⁴¹ for mercy and justice nor free bread in times of need. Christians prayed to *Our Father who art in Heaven*⁴² for forgiveness as they showed forgiveness to others and for their daily bread. Christian bread was contributed freely by the thanksgiving of Christ's faithful believers. Anyone who professed Christ was cast out of the social welfare system, Corban, of the Pharisees at Herod's golden temple that made the word of God to none effect.

Making the word of God of none effect through your tradition,⁴³ which ye have delivered: and many such like things do ye. Mark 7:13

Corban is sacrifice. It is also translated offering, oblation, offered, sacrifice, and treasury in the Bible. The purpose of the sacrifice was to care for the needy of society which included anyone who did not have sufficient resources within their family to provide for a crisis. Corban has been a part of all governments and societies of man.

Corban was a religious Rite for the welfare of the people. Cain, Nimrod, Pharaoh, Caesar, and Herod were benefactors in the provision of free bread by forcing the sacrifice, contributions, of the people.

The followers of Jesus the Christ also had provisions to care for the needy of their society. They accomplished this without the benefactors of the "world" which exercised authority over the contributions of the people. ⁴⁴ Pure Religion was providing for society in a way that was unspotted by the covetous authoritarianism of the "world".

And he said unto them, The kings of the Gentiles exercise lordship over them; and they that exercise authority upon them are called benefactors. But ye shall not be so: Luke 22:25. Also Matthew 20:25, Mark 10:42.

⁴³ paradosis from 3860; -tradition 12, ordinance 1 1) giving up, giving over 1a) the act of giving up 1b) the surrender of cities

⁴⁴ Acts 11:29 "Then the disciples, every man according to his ability, determined to send relief unto the brethren which dwelt in Judaea:"

Early Rome, the Republic, depended entirely on the distribution of charity through the congregation of the the family hearths. These networked families provided for the welfare needs of their society.

Public works projects, commercial ventures, and even war was financed through similar fund raising institutions or temples. This community in affluence and apathy eventually built temples to manage services on a centralized governmental scale with a broadened scope. By 70 B.C. a bread dole was decreed distributing free bread to 40,000 adult males which increased over the centuries to include over 300,000.

There was little need for individual charity with the government taking over this responsibility. Every year 500,000,000 bushels of grain was imported from Egypt alone. This grain was stockpiled and redistributed daily from warehouses along Trajan's dock covering over 160 acres. With these massive government giveaway programs in place, the local farmers needed to be subsidized and charity died from neglect.

As the republic moved away from voluntarism and charity the people were seduced by the temptation of easy entitlements offered by benefactors who exercised authority over them. The voluntary charitable network which had bound families together into a strong society was gradually replaced by an authoritarian systems which imposed a civil duty and legal obligation to contribute. A once titular leadership became law makers whose authority and power was soon centralized into the hands of one Caesar or dictator after another until Rome declined and fell.

"Protection draws to it subjection; subjection protection"45

It has always been common practice to expand the power of government through the offer of social contracts and schemes to an acquiescing, if not consenting populous. This is effected by enticing people with benefits provided at the expense of their neighbors through a tax.

"The real destroyers of the liberties of the people is he who spreads among them bounties, donations and benefits." ⁴⁶

The Bible warns over and over again concerning such covetous foolishness.⁴⁷ The modern Church, through ignorance or design, has subverted the meaning and intent of the authors. They have followed an illicit and covetous path. They have neglected the way of righteousness.

The unrighteous path is the unrighteous mammon. Mammon is not money, although money may represent a form of mammon. Mammon is *entrusted wealth*⁴⁸ such as the camp of the golden calf where people deposited their wealth under the control of another. Jesus compares God and mammon to two masters, who both requiring service and the bestowing of benefits and grace upon its faithful members. One will fail and the other is everlasting.

"And I say unto you, Make to yourselves friends of the mammon of unrighteousness; that, when ye fail, they may receive you into everlasting habitations.... If therefore ye have not been faithful in the unrighteous mammon, who will commit to your trust the true [riches]?" Luke 16:9-11

Jesus also tells us to be faithful with the unrighteous mammon, while we should pursue the righteous. We should not be cheating the present master while we are in the process of seeking the kingdom.

The people in Egypt were required to pay their tale of bricks, but they gleaned in the field for their straw. These are metaphors where the tale was what they owed the government, and straw was their entitlements and benefits. As these systems decline so do their benefits, but the burden increases upon the people and they cry out to the true God.⁴⁹

The intent of these systems of entrusting benefactors who exercise authority is to ensnare the people into bondage by enticing them to partake of the wealth of their neighbor, pledging their own in the process. It is a city like the *flesh pots*⁵⁰ of Egypt, Babylon, Rome, and Herod, which devour one another but fail to pursue the righteous path of God.

During the Christian persecutions emperor Decius [249-251] required all to sacrifice to the gods of the temple. The purpose was not to please idols of stone, but to fill the treasury of the temples. The severe penalties were meant to intimidate their members. We see that "...the

⁴⁹ Exodus 5:8-18 "And the tale of the bricks, which they did make heretofore, ye shall lay upon them; ye shall not diminish ought thereof: for they be idle; therefore they cry, saying, Let us go and sacrifice to our God.... Go therefore now, and work; for there shall no straw be given you, yet shall ye deliver the tale of bricks."

chiliarchs⁵¹ were calling upon each one by name from a roll."⁵²

Inflation had been staggering since the silver was removed from the denarii and the endless fighting against the barbarian terrorists had drained the funds of government. In order to keep the people placated and passive, benefits would need to be provided. The government built temples and institutions used to manage those "mammon" funds.

There has been accusations that "The Emperor Decius, wishing to break and suppress the law of the Christians, issued his edicts throughout the world."⁵³ Christians were not of that "world" nor were "believers" members on the "rolls" of the temples or partakers of its mammon.

Although Christians were separate, with their own law, anyone not participating in those systems of sacrifice were immediately suspect. These system of sacrifice and benefit was called Qorban by the Romans, Corban in the Bible, Korban in the Hebrew, and even Holy Qurbana.

All Corban is not the same. The Corban of the Pharisees made the word of God to none effect. God had told the people to love their neighbor as themselves with freewill offerings through a system of voluntary charity managed by their public servants, called the Levites. These public servants of the kingdom were chosen by ten families in congregations and paid based on their service.⁵⁴ The early Church continued this righteous system.

"Ye cannot drink the cup of the Lord, and the cup of devils: ye cannot be partakers of the Lord's table, and of the table of devils." 1 Cor. 10:21

The Pagans had their "Liturgy" from the Greek word leitourgi meaning "public service".⁵⁵ Christian's Liturgy was not about singing, vestments or the smoke and mirrors of modern religions. It was about the serving the public in congregations seeking the Kingdom of God. It operated under the perfect law of liberty by actively love one another in a religious system of, by, and for the people, which is the true worship of God⁵⁶

The Christian community was well-disciplined in their hearts and minds and organized from the bottom up through a system of charity rather than force. The Roman Mammon was failing. But the Christ's Mammon of righteousness successfully provided for Christian welfare.

Justin Martyr, in about AD 150, hoping to clear the misconceptions and prejudices surrounding Christianity, wrote the Emperor Antoninus Pius in defense of the Christian faith and allegiance to Christ:

"There is then brought to the president of the brethren bread and a vessel of wine mixed with water; and he taking them, gives praise and glory to the Father of the universe... And when the president has given thanks, and all the people have expressed their assent, those who are called by us deacons give to each of those present to partake of the bread and wine mixed with water over which the thanksgiving was pronounced, and to those who are absent they carry away a portion."

"And the wealthy among us help the needy ... and willing, give what each thinks fit; and what is collected is deposited with the president, who succours the orphans and widows and those who, through sickness or any other cause, are in want, and those who are in bonds and the strangers sojourning among us, and in a word takes care of all who are in need." (First Apology, Ch. 65-67)

This was not a ritual where a crumb of bread was given as a token but was the life saving bread of life. Through charity and hope a brotherhood is born in the Eucharist of Christ by the charitable sharing of provisions.

"We call this food eucharist (thanksgiving), and no one else is permitted to partake of it, except one who believes our teaching to be true and who has been washed in the washing which is for the remission of sins and for regeneration [baptism] and is thereby living as Christ enjoined." (First Apology, Chapter 66:1-20)

This was clearly the precept of the kingdom as defined by John the Baptist⁵⁷, Christ⁵⁸ and Moses.⁵⁹ This is the kingdom of God at hand doing the will of the Father and following the dictates of Christ.

The true faithful of Christ, not deluded by half a gospel, would not send their brothers to the benefactors who exercise authority who snare them into bondage with their systems of welfare. They would be partakers of the Eucharist of the kingdom of God and His righteousness.
